Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL DINNER IS SCENE OF UNIQUE ASSEMBLAGE

Delegates from a Score of Countries Gather for Dinner and to Hear Reports

Members of the Honolulu Young Men's Christian Association to the number of more than 500, representative of a score of different nationalities and hailing from nearly every American state and territory and from every principal country of the world, gathered in Cooke Hall last evening in attendance at the banquet and meeting which marked the close of the association's fiscal year. Without doubt it was the most unique and interesting gathering ever held in Honolulu, aside from being the most successful annual meeting ever held in the history of Honolulu's Y. M. C. A.

The games hall never looked more attractive than it did last night. Flags from every country, together with emblems and banners adorned the walls. The guests were seated at long tables, those from the various states and countries being in groups. Each table bore distinct decorations. California had the bear, Oregon its red apples, Kentucky its blue grass, Hawaii its lei, and so on down the line. Scotland had its plaid, Ireland its harp and shamrocks, and China the flags of the new republic. Chairman Thomas Sharp of the decorations committee spared no pains in his efforts to "do things up brown" as it were. In fact, every nook and cranny of the big hall had some sort of decoration that was distinctive.

Led by George R. Carter, Hawaii had the largest delegation, and the members occupied one long table. Shortly before the banquet started, the Hawaii delegation marched into the hall single file, each person being decorated with a lei. The coming of the Hawaiians was a sign for the banquet to begin, and it started off with a rush.

"This is just a chowder," announced President Richard H. Trent. "We want to hear from all the states and countries."

California started the fun with an enthusiastic yell. No sooner had its eulogistic yell than the other delegations took up the example. Many of the cheers were improvised on the spur of the moment, but there were none that failed to "get across." The dinner was good; the chowder, prepared especially for the occasion by Ito, head chef of the association, was perfect. Many dainty things to eat accompanied the chowder, and the whole ended with ice cream and coffee. Ernest Kaal and others contributed the music.

When all had finished eating, President Trent called the business meeting of the evening to order. Before reading his report, he spoke a few words in praise of the association's secretaries, and of those who have been foremost in assisting the association to make the headway which has been accomplished during the past fiscal year. His report, which contained statistics covering the year's work of the several departments, is in full, as follows:

"It will not be necessary for your president to report at any great length, for the reason that all the activities of the association will be fully covered in reports to be made by the secretaries and departmental heads."

"There are just a few items, however, which I wish to particularly emphasize, and which I feel sure will interest you."

"First: Our total membership at the close of the past year (April 30) was 1,718 divided as follows:

In Central Association.....1,422
In Japanese Branch.....206
In Korean Branch.....50

Total.....1,718

"Second: Heretofore we have spoken of our general secretary as the 'live wire' of the association. No longer does he hold exclusive right to the title, because at the present time we have just exactly 224 'live wires' serving on committees, and to this splendid committee organization is largely due the showing we are able to make."

"Third: During the year 662 religious meetings were held—an average of nearly two a day, or a little more than twelve a week. This is an excellent record."

"Fourth: In Bible classes 325 men and boys were enrolled, under leaders who were able to make the study of the scriptures of real value. This is an important part of the association work."

"Fifth: There were 410 students in the educational department, seeking and getting better preparation for life's work. This feature alone of the association work entitles it to the active moral and financial support of all classes of citizens."

"Sixth: The privileges of the physical department were made use of by 417 different men and boys. This department renders a real service to the community in the development of hardy manhood, and could be profitably used by many others who have not yet become acquainted with its importance."

"Seventh: Social entertainments and dinner parties to the number of 61 were held in the building during the year. In addition to the regular social features these special entertainments contribute greatly to the social life of the members and their friends."

"Eighth: Positions were found during the year for 167 men. It is hard to imagine a more useful and helpful service than this."

"Ninth: The average daily attendance at the building was 620 persons. This represents quite a bit of activity."

"Tenth: A little more than $55,000.00, actually handled in current money, is, in brief, the financial record of the year—and a cash balance of $26.46 was brought forward to the credit of the new year. Of this $55,000.00, less than fifteen per cent was received in the form of subscriptions and donations."

"In my opinion the Young Men's Christian Association is one of Honolulu's very best investments, and money devoted to its uses, either by direct gift or through testamentary bequest, will give the best kind of returns."

"The officers and directors have been faithful to their trusts, and the employed force has been diligent and efficient. The greatest of harmony has prevailed throughout the year, and all have worked unselfishly for the best interests of all concerned."

"Mr. Super, as before intimated, is no longer the only 'live wire'—the truth is, he is now the 'big dynamo.'"

Although the association closed the year with but $26.46 as a balance on hand, the majority of the figures brought out in the report presented by Frank C. Atherton, treasurer of the association, showed gains in many of the departments during the period just closed. The report follows:

Receipts of Year:
Membership fees, $9284.15, a loss of $378.65 over 1913; subscriptions, $7882.35, a gain of $100.00 over 1913; educational, $2448.90, a gain of $1049.80 over 1913; dormitory rent, $4563.30, a gain of $111.55 over 1913; social, $27,537.40, a gain of $3329.80 over 1913; physical, $463.20, a gain of $101.50 over 1913; miscellaneous, $2823.65, a gain of $1280.87 over 1913. The total receipts amount to $55,062.95, which is a gain of $5493.92 over last year.

The disbursements show that $55,062.63 was expended by the association during the year just closed. This is $5,693.33 more than was expended last year, and $26.46 less than the total receipts.

Following the reading of this report, which was enthusiastically received by those present, General Secretary Paul Super, in a brief address, pointed out the fact that the Young Men's Christian Association now supplements in no small degree the home, the church, the school and work and play. He then called upon the secretaries to briefly outline the manner in which the association does this. The speakers were, respectively, R. M. Cross, secretary of the employed boys' department; Lloyd R. Kilham, secretary of the religious work department; Jay A. Urice, secretary of the educational department, and A. E. Larimer, secretary of the men's department and head of the employment work of the association. These talks were snappy and interesting, and at their conclusion Waldo H. Heinrichs, the office secretary, told how the association is planning to welcome those men who are newcomers to Honolulu.

General Secretary Super closed the

PRINCESSES OF EUROPE STRIKE ON MATRIMONY, MADE TO ORDER

(Associated Press)

LONDON.—European courts face what is practically a widespread strike on the part of princesses against matrimony made to order. Individual protests against being made a victim of the old system whereby royal children have no voice in the selection of life partners are as old as the system itself, but the stand now taken, particularly by the princesses is said to appear like a concert of action. It is a blow to the royal match makers, who blame both the scarcity of princesses and the growth of feminism for the failure of their pet system. In this connection it is known that many of the royal doweries are inclined to lay the responsibility for this state of affairs on the fair shoulders of Princess Patricia of Connaught, daughter of the governor-general of Canada, who is said, during her residence in the new world, to have acquired certain odious democratic ideas not at all in harmony with her station.

The recent birth of a son to the Duchess of Brunswick, the only daughter of Emperor William of Germany, has served to call attention again to the small number of princesses and has given further force to the excuse of the royal bachelors that they are unable to find suitable partners of their own rank. This excuse may or may not be entirely valid, but it is undoubtedly true that both the young men and women of the royal circles show a distinct disinclination towards matrimony made to order.

Among the eligible princesses, who seem in no hurry to accept the partners selected for them by their royal parents, are the elder daughters of Emperor Nicholas of Russia, notably the Grand Duchess Tatiana, the beauty of the Russian imperial family, and Princess Elisabeth of Roumania. The latter is really a beautiful girl and an debutante might envy her perfect features, her cloud of lovely hair and her very expressive eyes. Both she and her younger sister, Princess Marie, have inherited the wonderful Coburg elegance coupled with the meeting with a brief talk in which he told of the plans which the association has for work during the coming fiscal year. The plans included the welcoming of the newcomers, work for non-English-speaking foreigners, a large number of men interested in the association movement, and the development of the local Japanese and Korean association work.

Aside from the members, present were Miss Esther M. Erickson, Mrs. W. F. Frear and Mrs. F. C. Atherton, representing the Y. W. C. A.; Major Julius A. Penn represented the army, and Rear-admiral G. B. T. Moore the navy.

half-gay, half-sad charm of their native land.

But the strike is not confined entirely to feminine sprigs of royalty. It is even said that the Prince of Wales, the most eligible of royal bachelors, has turned up his nose at the suggestion of a union with a very high-placed, but extremely unattractive princess.

The Church of the New Ideal, which admits no males to membership, has held its first services. The church is located at Wallasey, the newly constituted borough on the Cheshire side of the Mersey. Some two hundred women assembled for the inaugural sermon delivered by the Rev. Hatty Baker of Plymouth. Men are rigorously excluded.

A preliminary declaration of reasons for the formation of the church sets forth "the epoch making advance in the self-consciousness of women as a sex," and women's realization of equality with man in religious as well as other spheres of life. Their exclusion hitherto from any share in conducting church services is referred to as an exclusion by which the general progress of humanity has been delayed.

The Rev. Hatty Baker, who wore what is described as a "white choker" and a black gown of conventional clerical type, took as her subject, "God's Glorious Ideal." She declared that churches as founded and conducted by men obscured this ideal, and the present effort was to create a church of the future which would be along the lines of the ideal. Abraham, she said, as long as he acted on his own initiative, made many mistakes and twice had to be told by God to take advice of his wife, and the greatest tragedy of the world has never witnessed would never have taken place if Pilate had listened to his wife. The male bias had obscured the message of Christ in the past and the present church would do away with such bias. The preacher warned her adherents that they must expect persecution and ridicule. In the evening a service to which men were admitted was held.
